

Family Care Connect Research

Are you a pregnant woman from a migrant or refugee community?

Are you interested in helping design new ways to support families with their child's health and development?

Family Care Connect

We would like to see if a new way of providing services makes a difference to women and families from migrant and refugee communities, in supporting their child's health and development during their first 12 months.

We will compare two groups of families, based on where families live and the type of service they access or attend.

What is involved?

If you want to take part in this research, you will be asked to:

- Give signed or verbal consent
- Fill out three questionnaires about your family's needs. One at the beginning of the research, then one 6 months after the birth of your child and the last one 12 months after the birth of your child.
- Give permission to access your child's and your medical records to collect relevant data.

All personal information provided will remain anonymous and confidential.

Thank you for your time and contribution to this important research.

Are you eligible?

- 16 years of age or older
- Having your baby at St George Hospital
- From a non-English speaking background
- Lived in Australia for 5 years or less OR
- Lived in Australia or 10 years or less, and identify as a refugee

For more information or if you would like to take part in the research, please contact:

- Name: Mona Asghari
- Project Officer
- Mona.Asghari@health.nsw.gov.au
- Phone number: 0400 390 859

Health
South Eastern Sydney
Local Health District

