

RESEARCH OPPORTUNITY

Have you made or received a referral using the IAR-DST in primary care?

Researchers are conducting a study hoping to gain a better understanding of how people are directed quickly to the care they need.

The study invites practitioners to provide detailed information about their experience using the the Initial Assessment and Referral Decision Support Tool (IAR-DST) in primary care.

Knowing this will help us provide clear recommendations to government on how to improve access to treatment.

Who can participate?

Practitioners who have experience with the Initial Assessment and Referral decision support tool (IAR-DST).

GPs, commissioned service providers or anyone else who uses the IAR-DST in their clinical practice for any type of mental health illness or concern

What is involved?

Participants will take part in a brief online survey including a few anonymous questions about its usefulness.
