

Specialist Team for Intellectual Disability Sydney

The Specialist Team for Intellectual Disability (STrDeS) works with existing services to improve healthcare of people with Intellectual Disability.

What does STrDeS provide?

For General Practice teams

- Specialised advice and information on management of care for a person with intellectual disability
- Skills training or other education sessions
- Information and advice on resources and specific areas of interest in relation to intellectual disability
- Information on health services

The Intellectual Disability Health teams will be pleased to work with General Practice staff by phone, videoconference or in person and through case conferences and joint consultations.

For eligible clients

- A multidisciplinary health assessment
- A Health Care Plan with recommendations for ongoing care by the person's GP or other clinician

To be eligible

To be eligible for this clinical service a child, adolescent or adult with intellectual disability will have:

- Complex health conditions, and
 - A current unresolved health problem, and health care needs that cannot be met by usual care.
- The team does not provide routine reviews and will refer to health and other services as needed

Where are they located?

STrDeS is based at Croydon Health Centre, and sees clients who live within the Sydney Local Health District.
