EOI release date	04 September 2025
Deadline for EOI application submission	30 September 2025

1. Overview

Central and Eastern Sydney Primary Health Network (CESPHN) welcomes small and solo general practices in the St George, Bayside, Randwick and Sutherland Regions to submit an Expression of Interest (EOI) to participate in the GP+ program.

GP+ is a new program which offers an innovative approach to multidisciplinary team-based care in the primary care setting. The program is funded by the Department of Health, Disability and Ageing and aims to support smaller general practices connect with local allied health clinicians, improve health outcomes, enhance patient experiences and reduce avoidable hospitalisations. The program targets patients with chronic diseases and supports vulnerable populations who are unable to afford private allied health fee paying or co-payment services.

CESPHN will deliver the GP+ Program through the commissioning of providers that will provide the following allied health services within participating general practices:

- A non-dispensing consultant pharmacist to support the management of chronic diseases and complex health conditions, through medication counselling, education and quality improvement activities.
- A social worker to support patients with chronic diseases to access psychosocial support and assist with navigation of health and social systems when required (e.g. MyMedicare, Centrelink, My Aged Care)

These services will be available to eligible patients at no cost.

General practices participating in the GP+ Program will host the pharmacist and social worker onsite at their general practice. The pharmacist and social worker will be a shared resource across participating general practices in the St George, Bayside, Randwick and Sutherland regions. The work of each allied health clinician within the practice will be on a part time basis (approximately two sessions per week). General practices are encouraged to host both the pharmacist and social worker at their practice, however preference for one service can be accommodated.

Potential benefits for general practices that participate in the GP+ program include improved access to allied health for their patients, as well as support for patients to manage their chronic health condition and to navigate support systems (e.g. My Aged Care, social services). GP+ offers solo and small general practices an opportunity to collaborate with a multidisciplinary team in-person and onsite.

Financial support to the value of $5000 (excluding GST) will be offered to general practices to participate in the program. An initial payment of $1000 will be paid upon execution of the Memorandum of Agreement (MOA attached), followed by two annual instalments of $2000 until completion of the program in June 2027.
